

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A scanning exposure apparatus includes a stage unit which supports and moves a substrate, and a control unit which starts exposing the substrate after a start of a second section in an acceleration section of the stage unit sequentially including a first section in which a jerk is positive, the second section in which a jerk is 0, and a third section in which a jerk is negative.

5